

Figure 11. Analysis framework conceptual pathway

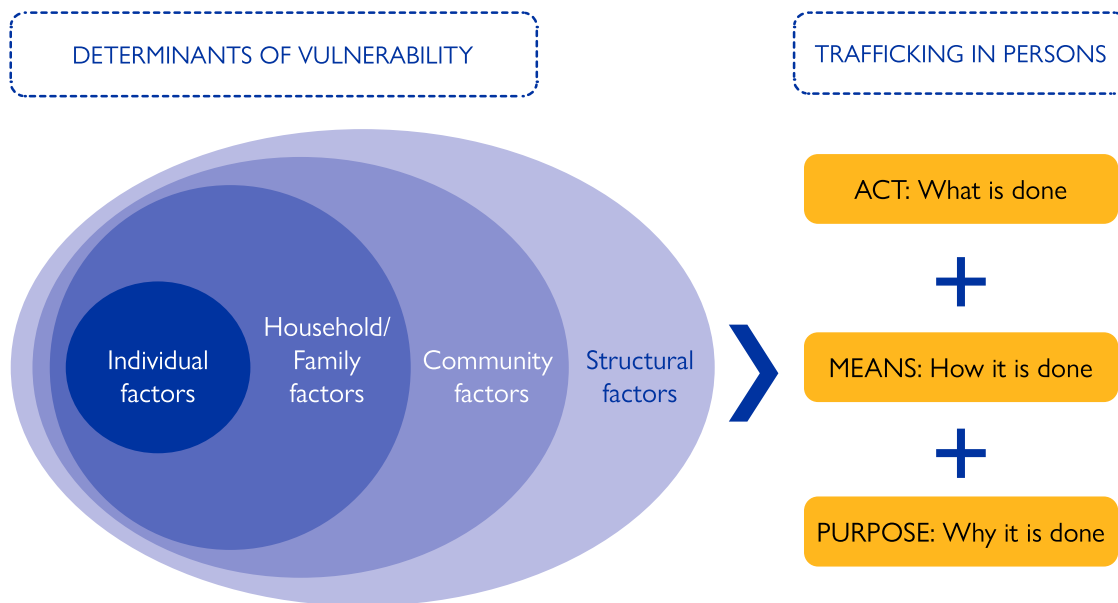

Figure 12. Analysis framework

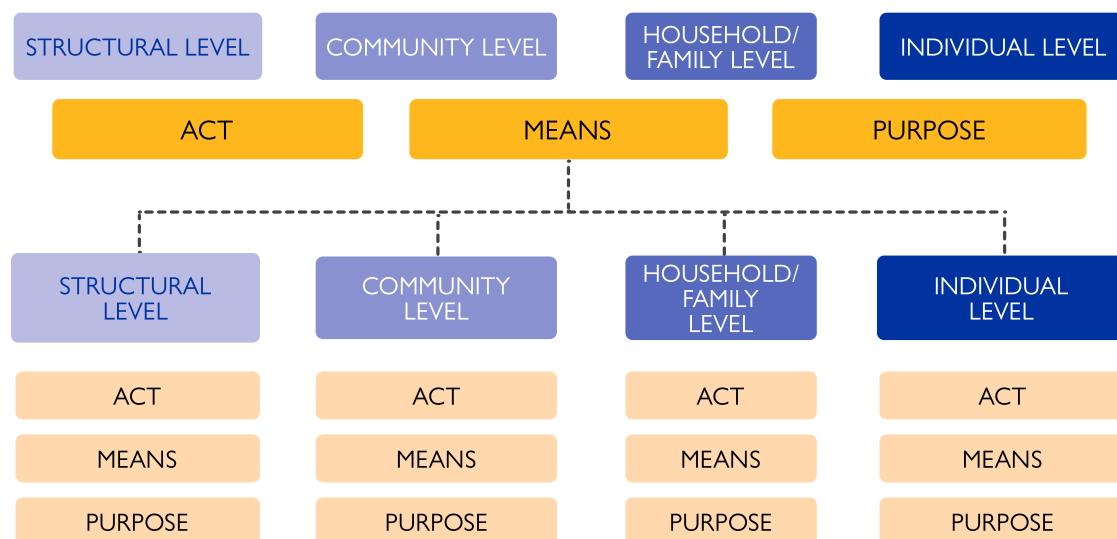

Table 3. Analysis framework: example

		Determinants of vulnerability
		Structural factors	Community factors	Household and family factors	Individual factors
TIP	ACT	Is there any relation between structural factors and act? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do structural factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the act occurring? Do structural factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the act? Do structural factors related to the act enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims? 	Is there any relation between community factors and act? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do community factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the act occurring? Do community factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the act? Do community factors related to the act enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims? 	Is there any relation between household and family factors and act? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do household and family factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the act occurring? Do household and family factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the act? Do household and family factors related to the act enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims? 	Is there any relation between individual factors and act? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do individual factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the act occurring? Do individual factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the act? Do individual factors related to the act enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims?
	MEANS	Is there any relation between structural factors and means? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do structural factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the means occurring? Do structural factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the means? Do structural factors related to the means enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims? 	Is there any relation between community factors and means? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do community factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the means occurring? Do community factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the means? Do community factors related to the means enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims? 	Is there any relation between household and family factors and means? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do household and family factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the means occurring? Do household and family factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the means? Do household and family factors related to the means enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims? 	Is there any relation between individual factors and means? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do individual factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the means occurring? Do individual factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the means? Do individual factors related to the means enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims?
	PURPOSE	Is there any relation between structural factors and purpose? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do structural factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the purpose occurring? Do structural factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the purpose? Do structural factors related to the purpose enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims? 	Is there any relation between community factors and purpose? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do community factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the purpose occurring? Do community factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the purpose? Do community factors related to the purpose enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims? 	Is there any relation between household and family factors and purpose? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do household and family factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the purpose occurring? Do household and family factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the purpose? Do household and family factors related to the purpose enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims? 	Is there any relation between individual factors and purpose? For instance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do individual factors increase or mitigate the risk associated with the purpose occurring? Do individual factors increase or decrease vulnerability to the purpose? Do individual factors related to the purpose enable or hinder the identification and provision of assistance to the victims?